COURSE SYLLABUS

Course Title: Early Language and Literacy

Course #: ECE*231

Course Description: An introduction to language and literacy development in the young child. Exploration of the early childhood language arts curriculum includes speaking, listening, writing and reading skills. Emphasis on the influence of a child's cultural/social background and experiences on emerging literacy development will be explored. Creation of a literacy-rich environment that engages children in developmentally appropriate language arts experiences will be included. Twelve (12) hours of observation in an approved early childhood education centers/programs is required. Field trips will be required.

Goals: The instructor will:

- Explore the growth and development language potential of young children.
- Explore the four interrelated areas of language arts: listening, speaking, reading and writing.
- Familiarize students with the concepts of “emergent literacy” and the “whole child.”
- Familiarize students with Developmentally and Culturally Appropriate Practice (DAP & DCAP), NAEYC standards and CT Preschool Standards.
- Help students recognize their individual talents and gifts useful in language arts activities.
- Motivate students to utilize creativity and innovation in designing language learning experiences and materials for young children.
- Afford students time to practice, try out, and gain immediate feedback on progress.
- Encourage student recognition of children's literacy behaviors.
- Ensure that students exit the class with a resource collection for both present and future use.
- Help students base their classroom actions and behavior on accepted practice and current theory and research.

Outcomes: Upon completion of course, the student should be able to:

- Describe the stages and process of language development in young children.
- Demonstrate the interrelationship of the four accepted areas of language arts and the connection to higher level thinking skills.
- Explain the concepts of “developmentally and culturally appropriate practice,” “emergent literacy,” and the “whole child.”
- Discuss a curriculum that promotes language acquisition and literacy.
- Develop a variety of tools to implement a literacy-rich environment and age-appropriate language arts program.

- Identify children’s literacy behaviors.
- Identify/develop activities, strategies and techniques that promote language and literacy acquisition for both English and non-English speaking children.
- Plan, practice and implement creative and innovative language arts activities.
- Compile a language arts resource collection for present and future use.
- Discuss parents as partners in extending literacy into the home.
- Explain the role of play in language and literacy development.
- Discuss print awareness and the relationship of sound to print.
- Identify phonemes, phonological awareness and alphabetic principle.
- Select quality books and literacy-rich materials for young children.
- Translate theory into practice by encouraging and establishing classroom actions/behaviors that reflect accepted early childhood professional practice as well as current theory and research.

Sexual Assault and Intimate Partner Violence Resource Team: NCCC is committed to creating a community that is safe and supportive of people of all gender and sexual identities. This pertains to the entire campus community, whether on ground or virtual, students, faculty, or staff. Sexual assault and intimate partner violence is an affront to our national conscience, and one we cannot ignore. It is our hope that no one within our campus community will become a victim of these crimes. However, if it occurs, NCCC has created the SART Team - Sexual Assault and Intimate Partner Violence Resource Team - to meet the victim's needs.

SART is a campus and community based team that is fully trained to provide trauma-informed compassionate service and referrals for comprehensive care. The team works in partnership with The Susan B. Anthony Project to extend services 24 hours a day, 7 days a week throughout the year.

The NCCC team members are:
